High margins in IT sector may not sustain for long

A majority of costs saved such as travel, deferral of wage revisions will fade over time

MUMBAI

Indian software services companies' better-than-expected gains in profitability in the September quarter contributed by cost-saving measures during the pandemic, and much of these benefits may fade away in the coming months, said analysts.

A Mint analysis of 18 information technology companies that have reported September quarter earnings showed that net sales improved 4.33% from a year earlier while adjusted net profit grew 7.63% with operating profit margin rising to 27.10. For the top-five IT companies, net sales improved 4.31%, while adjusted net profit grew 7.68% in July-September.

Only a small part of the earnings before interest and taxes (EBIT) margin expansion reported by most companies in Q2 is sustainable, said Kavaljeet Saluja and Sathishkumar S., analysts at Kotak Institutional Equities. "Benefits of many of the costs saved such as travel, facilities costs, lower selling and marketing and deferral of wage revisions will fade over a period of time. Utilization rate can vary considerably and may not be a sustainable margin lever. Retention of some of the benefits will depend on the competitive environment and operational rigour," the analysts said in a 29 October note.

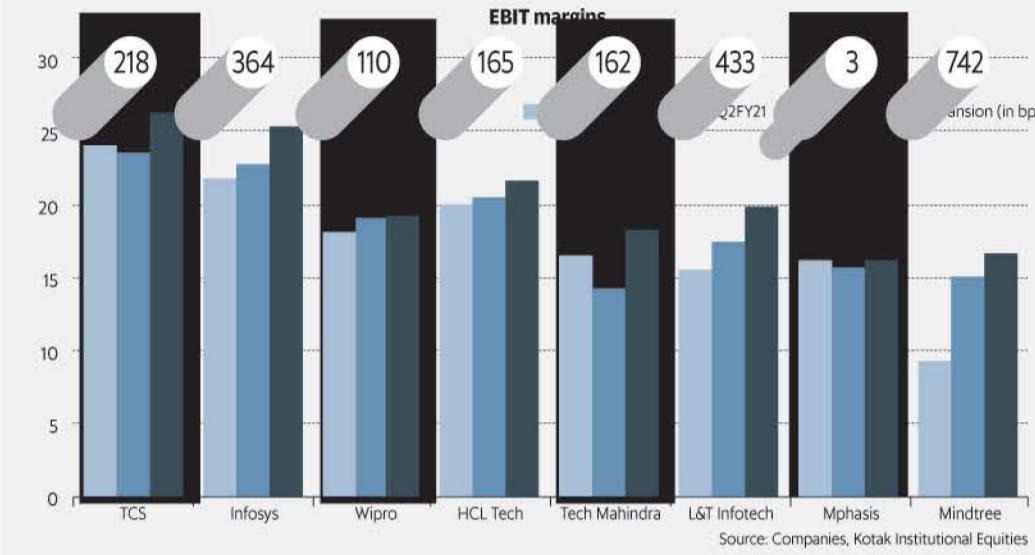

With several IT companies having reinstated wage hikes and promotion cycles, employee costs are also expected to rise, they said.

For instance, Infosys Ltd, which reported record deal wins in the September quarter, forecast a 2-3% revenue growth for FY21 at constant currency, indicating modest growth in the six months to 31

March. "A 23-24% Ebit margin band cannot be considered sustainable for now; this will have to be keenly monitored. Notwithstanding the higher variable payouts, the company delivered robust margin expansion in the quarter. We believe some of the margin tailwinds are not sustainable, and their benefits would wane out partially as travel comes back and the attrition and offshore ratio normalizes," analysts at Motilal Oswal said.

Elevated evaluations of some of these companies are also weighing on sentiment. Steep valuations of some IT stocks, especially in tier-2 companies, may take the shine away from the sector," said Sanjeev

So far this year, the BSE IT index has gained nearly 35% against a decline of 4% of benchmark Sensex. Midcap firms such as Masteek, Mindtree and Mphasis have jumped 47-140% while TCS, Infosys and Wipro shares rallied 21-45% in 2020 so far.

Devang Mehta, head of equity advisory at Centrum Wealth Management, however, said that despite the elevated valuations, markets are willing to give them a thumbs-up on premium valuations as they are delivering growth. "Visibility in terms of revenues, margins and profitability look good for the next two to three years," he said.

Export growth falters again in Oct after Sep expansion

Asit Ranjan Mishra

NEW DELHI

Export Organisations' president Sharad Kumar Saraf said nominal decline in exports during October has been mainly because of severe container shortage and hike in sea freight, which has upset exports. "With the upcoming Christmas and New Year season, both the global and the India economy are slated for economic revival. Exporters have continuously been receiving a lot of enquiries and orders further adding to the positive sentiments with signals of further resilience in the global supply chain," he added.

Aditi Nayyar, principal economist at ICRA Ratings, said non-oil merchandise exports continued to report a growth for the second consecutive month, although the pace of the same expectedly moderated following a resurgence of covid-19 infections in many trading partners.

"The renewed lockdowns in some advanced economies will severely test the durability of the uptrend in non-oil merchandise exports in the ongoing month," she added.
